HUD Expands Support To Black Colleges

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel R. Pierce, Jr.,announced that 15 histor'ically Black colleges and universities will share $1.5 million in grants to help smaller communities participate more successfully in Hud programs.

This is the second time in less than two years that Hud funds are being made available to instutions for the purpose of helping eligible communities plan, develop and administer their Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) projects.

I think it's important to continue our commitment to support historically Black college and universities," said Secertary Pierce. "President Reagan's Executive Order to that effect was a welcome initiative in September, 1981. I'am proud that we're a model agency in implementing his order. From the time that order was issued untill July of 1983," he continued, "We awarded over 44 percent of Hud's budget fopr higher education instutions to Black colleges. I am confident that these colleges, the students and communities they serve...and the entire Nation...will benefit from such cooperation.

Guide to Black Organizations

Benjamin Hooks & Allene S. Roberts

Benjamin L. Hooks, Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), looks over the new Guide to Black Organizations with Allene S. Roberts, Public Affairs Specialists, Philip Morris U.S.A., publishers of the Guide.

Blacks are joining the entrepreneurial, corporate and professional ranks in force. As a result, they are forming many new organizations dedicated to advancement in these areas, a newly issued compendium of Black groups indicates. Furthermore, these organizations are in the forefront of current technological, cultural and economic trends, according to listings in the 1984-85 edition of A Guide to Black Organizations.

Now in its fourth edition, the Guide lists 176 national, regional and local Black professional, educational, political, cultural and fraternal groups. This year's expanded edition offers each organization's address, telephone number, principal officials, publications, and special events and conventions for 1984-85.

Copies of the Guide may be obtained free of charge by writing to Mary A. Taylor, Manager, Public Relations, Philip Morris USA, 120 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Jackson/Mondale

The Rev Jessie Jackson is unhappy with Walter Mondale for failing to consider him as a running mate, and also accused Jewish leaders of trying to "distance" Mondale from him.

Aides to Jackson commented that Jackson was bitter over his treatment by Mondale in recent days.

Although Jackson has said previously that he was not interested in the vice-presidency candidacy, he later said "If it was offered, it would be very difficult to refuse." Jackson also states that he has earned "peer group status" in the Democratic Party.

Japanese Art Exhibit

Culture. Education. Economics. For a quarter of a century these have been the cornerstones of the Sister City Exchange Program between Tacoma and Kitakyushu Japan.

Planned as a goodwill visit that marked the 25th anniversary of the Sister City Exchange Program, festivities were highlighted by the opening of the Japanese Art Exhibit at the Tacoma Art Museau, on July 6.

Mayor Sutherland said Mayor Tani of the city of Kitakyushu has referred to the exhibit in correspondence as a "friendship exhibit".

Since Tacoma and Kitakyushu formed sister city ties in 1959, there have been many exchanges, Tani wrote. "These exchanges have not been simply symbolic gestures, but rather they have strengthened our ties of friendship and opened the door for future exchanges," he said.

The exhibit will be on loan to Tacoma from the Kitakyushu Municipal Museum of Art. It will include a collection of 18th and 19th century Ukiyoe woodcut prints and approximately 30 contemporary paintings by Japanese artist. The Ukiyoe prints are by such renowned artists as Hiroshige, Kunioyshi, Toykuni, and Hokusai.

The exhibit will be on display, free to the public, from July 6-15. Hours are 10 a.m, to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m., Sunday.

HAVE YOU BELIEVE OUR REPORT?
SERIES #45
ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

WORDS OF WISDOM
ROMANS 5: 1-

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience; And patience experience; and experience, hope: And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us. For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. For scarecely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die. But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him. For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement. Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned: For until the law sin was in the world: but sin is not imputed when there is no law. Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many.

And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation, but the free gift is of many offences unto justification.

"The Doctors Prescription

Unequally Yoked

Mark Twain, the well-known American humorist, fell in love with Olivia Langdon. "Livy", as he called her, grew up in a Christian home and held from religious convictions. Mark Twain made no profession of faith, although he appeared to have been touched by Livy's life.

Mark Twain and Olivia Langdon were married. Early in their marriage, Mark regularly asked a blessing at mealtime and joined in family worship, but this did not last.

One day Twain announced, "Livy, I dont believe in the Bible". Little by little, bit by bit Mark Twain's lack of faith worked like a cancer on his wife's spiritual life.

Later, during a period of pressing sorrow, he tried to strengthen Livy by saying, "Livy, if it comforts you to lean on the Christian faith, do so". But his wife could only reply, "Mark, I can't. I haven't any!"

Marriage is not a mission field. God never called any person into a marriage to convert their partner. Marriage strains under the burden of an unshared faith. Not only will you harm the person with whom you join your life, but you will harm yourself if your mate is not a Christian. Too much is at stake to ignore God's command.

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them: and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you.

And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Al mighty."

II Corinthians 6: 14-18

Pauline Trigere's Again

Rose, our fashion consultant is again viewing the most exciting fashions for fall ever!! Pauline Trigere, a New York designer is really something else. Her designs are free and flowing, and they express so much femininity.

Below, are three of my favorites, says Rose.

First, feast your eyes on this head turning costume for Fall and Winter 1984/85. This is a Mongolian Lamb Coat over a two piece dress in twin prints of red and grey honeycomb sild crepe and basket weave wool. The coat is luxuriously lined in the same fabric. Next is a Cranberry Paisley Dress in feather weight wool challis with a companion scarf laced thru a leather belt. This ensemble is very dressy and sophisticated, while at the same time, simple and very neat.

The last of this week's fashion illustration, but certainly not the least is this very traditional, but terrific black and grey corded wool tween three-piece suit with a very lavish opposum collar with matching hat.

We certainly hope to being you more of Pauline's designs in the near future. She has certainly made an impression with us here in the Northwest. We

PSALMS 108

O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory.

Awake, psaltery and harp: I myself will awake early.

I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: and I will sing praises unto thee among the nations For thy mercy is great above the heavens: and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds. Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens thy glory above all the earth; That thy beloved may be delivered: save with thy right hand, and answer me.

god hath spoken in his holiness: I will rejoice, I will divide Shechem, and mete out the valley of Succoth. Gilead is min; Manasseh is mine; Ephraim also is the strength of mine head; Judah is my lawgiver;

Moab is my washpot: over Edom will I cast out my shoe; over Philistia will I triumph. Who will bring me into the strong city? who will lead me into Edom? Wilt not thou, O God, who hast cast us off? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hosts? Give us help from trouble: for vain is the help of man.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

A Story On Lynching

The Civil War was followed by a brief period of about 10 years (1867-1877) called Black Reconstruction. But that brief experiment with democracy was overthrown by White supremists who used terror, murder and intimidation to halt Black progress.

By 1880, one congressman estimated that "130,000 people had been murdered in the South for political reasons." "Crimes" included not saying "mister" to White or attempting to vote.

Lynching included mutilations, fiendish rites and barbaric group behavior and were advertised in newspapers. Crowds of thousands sometimes came on chartered trains. Lynch-murders reached staggering proportions by the 1890's--"The Terrible Nineties," as they were called. Almost every day a Black was murdered by a lynch mob.

"I had heard about lynchings of Black people by White folks all the days of my life from my mother, my sisters, my brothers, my aunties, uncles, cousins, old folks, neighbors and friends. I'd heard about it over the radio, and read about it in the newspapers. I thought it was a strange way of getting rid of animosity against a group of people because of their color," explains James Cameron, the founder and first president of the Madison County, Indiana NAACP.

James Cameron is the only man to experience a lynching and live. America's economic plight was not on the minds of thousands of Whites in the small town of Marion, Indiana on a warm summer night in August of 1930.

Cameron was reborn on that same night. He tells one of the most chilling stories of how he escaped being lynched when mob murder was commonplace.

"Why did I find myself at that particular spot at that particular time with all these thousands of raving maniace around me? Well, it all happened on a lonely country road in Marion, Indiana on August 6, 1930," he explains.

"I had been with a couple of my buddies and we had gone out to the country and we held up a White man and his lady companion. When I came to myself and found out what I was doing there with them, I turned around and told them I wouldn't want to have anything to do with this, that I was going home. Later, I was arrested and accused of shooting the man and raping the woman. But later on that same day the Ku Klux Klan mob broke into the jail and got all three of us out -- Abe, Tommy and me.

"First they got Tommy out. They took and beat him to death--or half to death--and dragged him out and hung him on the bars of the windows of the jail around the side. They they came back in and got Abe and beat him all the way up to the courthouse step and hung him on the tree. And then they came back and got me."

Cameron painfully continues: "The mob closed in and immediately they grabbed hold of me. And the merciless beatings was all the way down the corridor, the steel steps, into the corridor, down the first floor and out into the streets, when the mob came alive. They said, "We've got Cameron. We got him. We got him." I never saw such emotion in all of my life as I saw at that very moment. so many licks were thrown at me, they got in each other's way and hit the mobsters that were holding me on each side.

"The city police in this particular town cleared a path for the mob to better facilitate them carrying me up to the tree where Tommy and Abe were hanging. And I remember when I got to the tree, someone said, 'Where's the rope?' and I could feel my whole body, as if it were encased in ice.

"When they put that rope around my neck and pushed me up close under the tree where Tommy and Abe were hanging, I said, 'Lord, have mercy. Forgive me for my sins. Help me.' And then I just stood there," Cameron explains tearfully.

"And that was when I was standing there under that tree and I was asking God to have mercy on me, when all of a sudden, this voice came. It was voice, an echo, from way, way away. It couldn't have been anything on this earth, because there was nothing in the world that could stop that mob. But when that voice spoke and said, 'Take this boy back. he had nothing to do with any lynching, with any raping or shooting of anybody,' instantly, in the twinkling of an eye, that mob stood still.

"I felt like I was in a huge room and there was nothing but negatives of films hanging around drying out. That's the way the mob looked to me, just like I was looking at them through a transparency," he remembers.

"And then all at once, the hands that had been rough and cruel and merciless and had killed, became soft and kind. And the rope was removed from my neck and miraculously the crowd faded away and this time they didn't need the police to push them back.

"The voice I heard, as I stood under the tree with a rope around my neck ready to be hung by the mob, was not a voice of human origin. I'm sure of that because there wasn't any voice in the world that could have stopped that raging mob. The crowd was estimated at 10 to 15 thousand people. I'd never seen so many White people in all my life," he says.

Cameron eventually wrote a book on his experience and still worries about the fate of this country. "Those are the things that I look upon as I look back on Marion, Indiana and other places in Indiana where they tolerate the activities of the Ku Klux Klan. And I pray for my country. I cry for my country. And I wonder what's going to become of it."

Travel Tips For Good Health

Travel by Auto: Map out your trip in advance with rest stops as well as overnight stops. Don't try to cram too many miles into a single day. Fatigue is not conducive to a pleasant trip.

If you don't have a good postural seat, fold a towel, a blanket or take a small pillow and place it across your back with the lower border just above the crest of your hip bones, to support your back while seated in your auto for long periods. Shift positions often. Stop at least every two hours. Keep windows open for ventilation. Eat regularly.

Travel by Air: Don't let the excitment of the trip upset your routine and force you to move under pressure. Don't rush. Allow ample time for packing, travelling to the airport and taking care of details.

Don't plan a heavy schedule the first day you arrive. Allow time to rest - especially where there is a change in time zones of several hours.

Don't skip meals while traveling and then try to make it up by eating a big late night dinner in some exotic restaurant. Try to get enough sleep, exercise and a balanced diet while traveling.

Traveling by Train: Sitting up for long periods of time tend to make you excessively tired. Your back and limbs become stiff and may begin to ache, and it may take you considerable length of time to recuperate. When travelling by bus or train, switch positions occassionally. Also, take stand-up and walking breaks. Get up and stretch frequently. Make certain that you eat regularly, but lightly. You may enjoy packing a lunch and taking it along. Do not fill up on snacks and sweets.

 Vacations are conducive to situations which may cause spinal misalignment. Because most people are more carefree than usual on vacations, and they tend to push too much activity into a short period of time, it is wise to have a chiropractic spinal examination before you leave and after you return.

Chiropractic care can help you have a healthier, more enjoyable vacation.

Yours for better health, Dr. Rody.

Persecution Must Stop!

For the second time in as many years, the U.S. House Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations has heard testimony about the persecution of Baha'is in Iran.

In that report it was brought out the Baha'is Iran have long suffered tremenous pressure from Iran's Islamic revoluntionary government, but they are now being slaughtered by the Khomeini regime for membership in the Bahai Faith.

In spite of world wide protests, the killings imprisonment, insults, and beatings and other forms of degrading behavior have become an every day occurance.

There have been instances in which professional police and prison officials were shock and dismayed at the treatment of Baha'i prisoners. Eye witness accounts from survivors are full of gruesome details of beatings; of prisoners whipped with metal cables; having boiling water poured on their heads; having their heads smashed against concrete walls; of prisoners being kicked with heavy boots and being beaten and kicked with fists and sticks; of being beaten on the soles and then forced to run on lacerated feet. The list goes on.

Recent reports have indicated that the torture is being used not only to force recantations and conversions to Islam but also to extract false confessions of various fictive crimes, confessions which would 'prove' the old accusations that the Baha'is are Zionist or imperialist agents, foreign spies, or a political subversive group.

I appear for continuing support so that the voice of this nation and other nations as well as the great religious organizations of the world may rally in defence of the persecuted and the oppressed.

Blacks, Jews, & The Media

The historic alliance between blacks and Jews has been strained by, among other things, the provocative statements of Minister Louis Farrakhan. Each of these has been seized upon by the media and played for all its worth. th result: a manipulated press provides a strange sort of entertainment for anti-Semites and anti-blacks.

Added to this is the supposition, which has roots in historic racism, that statements by virtually any black person must be responded to by other blacks.

Here is how it work:

Minister Farrakhan makes a statement such as the outragious slurs on Judaism as a religion or on the supposed illegitimacy of the state of Israel. Such reprehensible statements are representative of only a small segment of the black community; in fact far more whites are likely to share them than blacks.

But the media report them, often in big headlines designed to sell papers. It doesn't seem to matter to the media that such statements are the opinion of but one black minister and his relatively small group of followers. Would the media be so anxious to publicize the views of a white minister who is not representative of the larger white community?

It is virtually impossible to interest those same reporters in constructive community programs we run or in the advocacy positions we take. But let Minister Farrakhan say something, and the media reporters buzz around us like flies.

Just imagine the position that puts us in. Being asked whether you agree with statements insulting the Jewish religion or the legitimacy of the state of Israel is in itself insulting, like being asked if you beat your wife or take drugs.

I can understand the anger of the Jewish community which finds itself the subject of ethnic slurs and ugly, racist remarks. Blacks too, are outraged by the remarks and resent being asked to account for statements they do not share.

I have no hesitation in affirming my support for Israel, the embodiment of Jewish national aspirations and an oasis of democracy in a desert of dictatorships. And my deep respect for the Jewish religion is based on its high ethical teachings and on the recognition that it is the foundation of both Christianity and Islam.

I continue to object to the idea that black leadership must always respond to extremist remarks of other blacks, even if the only purpose they serve is to prolong a media circus. but the virulence of the most recent reported remarks by Minister Farrakhan and the reality of the bitterness they engender, suggests that the time has come to publicly condemn those statements.

We should recognize that black people have produced far fewer demogogues than whites. In fact, given the oppression blacks have been subjected to, it is remarkable how few extremists have sprung from soil that historical nurtures extremism.

Demogoguery is encouraged by the media whose fanning of the flames of discord prolongs the agony of divisions among ethnic communities that should not be diverted from their constructive alliance.

The current controversy takes on tragic proportions when we realize it comes on the twentieth anniversary of the brutal lynchings of Andrew Goodman, Michael Schwerner, and James Chaney -- two Jews and a black who marched hand in hand for black freedom and died together in the same cause.

Their sacrifice embodies the spirit of a black-Jewish coalition for justice that will endure long after today's tensions are forgotten. Anti-Semitism and racism are an insult to their memory and to a free society being damaged not simply by extremist statements of a handful but also by the irresponsibility of the media.

The sculpture, at a cost of $272,000.00 if funded by Tacoma's "One Percent for Art" program. The sculpture consists of two white paneled walls, each 96 feet long and 12 feet high, which serves as a backfrop for blue, green, red and pink neon tubing shaped in arcs, angles, circles and lines. Over 1,000 feet of tubing will be used in the sculpture. According to donna Kinkela, Acting Director of the Tacoma Arts Commission, workmen who have been busy installing the sculpture since early June are "right on schedule." New Drug causes Birth Defects?

Accutane, a new drug has been found to cause birth defects. The Pierce County March of Dimes would like to inform you of the effects concerning this drug.

There is now enough evidence to say that a new prescription drug for acne can kill or malform the human embryo, according to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

"Any sexually active woman should have a pregnancy test before treatment with Accutane, says Arthur J. Salisbury, M.D., March of Dimes vice president for medical services. "She should avoid becoming pregnant during treatment, and for one month afterward," he warns.

"Fortunately," he says, "Accutane is not meant to be taken for more than a few months. When it works for acne, its remission effect seems to last for a year or more. Responsible adult women should able to avoid conception during the relatively short period of treatment and for a month afterward. Teenage girls, as a group, are more worrisome, and the choice to treat them with Accutane must be made very carefully on an individual basis."

Women who become pregnant while taking Accutane are urged to have their personal physicians contact the drug's manufacturer, Roche Laboratories in Nutley, N.J., at (201) 235-3021.
